

The FUNdamentalist HUMANifesto:

• Credo of the The Right-To-Laugh Party •

We believe that every born "feed-us" has the right to laugh, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, unless of course happiness is a warm gun, in which case some restrictions may apply.

We have the right to laugh at our leaders, particularly those times when their actions are either seriously foolish or foolishly serious.

We have the right to help them laugh with each other and at themselves, and we propose creating the office of Supreme Court Jester so that someone will tell the President the truth even when everyone else is afraid to.

We have the right to laugh at the ridiculous foolishness of spending more on mass destruction than we spend on mass construction, and at the utter absurdity of doing the same things that haven't worked in the past – and expecting them to work in the future.

We seek to extend this Right to Laugh all across the globe as a "people tenderizer" and prerequisite for civil discourse and constructive action.

Imagine Robin Williams or Whoopi Goldberg or Chris Rock or Patch Adams being flown in to warm up a chilly negotiation between countries.

Imagine delegates at the United Nations beginning their sessions with the Hokey Pokey ... everyone having a fully-opened "clown chakra ★" before negotiating .. now that's what it's all about!

Although we are enthusiastically pro-laugh, we are pro-choice as well. We respect each and every individual's right not to laugh. If you want to be miserable, go right ahead. Whatever makes you happy

But we are concerned when people are not laughing because of unnecessary suffering that could be easily alleviated. Especially children not laughing.

When a child isn't laughing ... well, it's just not funny.

Laughing children make happy adults and happy adults make a happier world. A happier world means more laughing children.

And this is how we strengthen the laugh force ... and raise the laugh expectancy ... on the planet.

Yes, the problem is serious. But the solution may very well be humorous. For if, as most of us suspect, there's something funny going on, what better than comedy to deal with it?

The Right To Laugh movement is about replacing helplessness, hopelessness and fear with encouragement and empowerment. We aim to shine the light of laughter on the world's shadow, especially those poorly-lit corridors of power, and use levity to overcome gravity.

MAY WE ALL WAKE UP LAUGHING, AND LEAVE LAUGHTER IN OUR WAKE.

FOR SURELY, THE FARCE IS WITH US!
